

Coordinator for International Projects, Networks and Agreements at the International Relations Office of the University of Granada since 2008, she has gained international experience as senior officer responsible for the administration of international programmes at several faculties within the UGR since 2000.

In addition to this, she is also responsible for the administration and management related to the international networks and associations the UGR belongs to.

She also manages, in coordination with the General Secretary, the general administrative procedures, related to the negotiation and signing of general and specific international cooperation agreements.

As part of her other international activities, she has participated in numerous international events regarding academic co-operation.